COUNCIL TO ADVERTISE GLENDALE

Votes $240 for Publicity Through W. C. T. U. and Realtors

IT WISHES CREDIT

Stevenson Objects to Soft Pedal on Such Appropriations

Two hundred and forty dollars was ordered laid aside for advertising purposes by the city council last night. One hundred dollars of this amount was ordered given to the Glendale realty board for the advertising of Glendale at the realtors' convention, which will be held soon in San Francisco.

The other $140 was ordered presented to the W. C. T. U., which will hold a big convention in Glendale soon. Instead of spending this amount in decorating the city with flags, etc., the council decided to give it to the organization so that it may be used in keeping down crime in this and other sections.

"I hope the people of the city and the surrounding country will hear of the council paying this money for advertising purposes," said Councilman Stephenson. "When other municipal bodies of the city spend money for advertising the fact is heralded far and wide, but as a rule when the council spends money for this purpose the soft pedal is placed on it. So I hope this time we will get credit for spending the people's money for advertising Glendale. We believe that the people think this should be done, but when it is done they want credit for it."

MAY FESTIVAL YIELDS LARGE RETURNS

$324 Earned by Cerritos School Play Day Carnival

Returns are in and bills have been paid for the May Festival given by Cerritos Avenue school May 5, and they are astonishingly large, netting the school $324.31.

This surprising return is the result of the local co-operation not only of the officers and members of the Cerritos Parent-Teacher association but of other organizations which have their headquarters in that section of the city and which were glad to boost and patronize the pretty affair.

Members of the general committee of arrangements headed by Mrs. E. V. Bacon, wish some public expression of their thanks to be given to all who contributed in any way whether the contributions were to the program, to the booths at which various things were sold, the gift of service, or of articles used for prizes. Merchants of the city, particularly those who have stores in the southern section, were most generous.

Mrs. Curtis, principal of the school, is very happy over the outcome and says the money will be spent for athletic equipment and for the improvement of the athletic grounds.

CITY LABORATORY PLANNED FOR GLENDALE

City Manager Is Ordered to Secure Estimates of Cost

At its meeting last night the city council authorized City Manager Reeves to secure estimates of cost for the establishment of a municipal laboratory for Glendale. It is a state law that when a city reaches a certain size it must maintain its own laboratory. Glendale has reached that size, according to a communication received from state officials, and it is up to this city to establish its own examination department.

In this laboratory a graduate analetical chemist will be employed and in every way the department will come up to the highest standards of the state.

SKI JUMPERS TO JUMP

SEATTLE, Wash., May 18.—Some of the best ski jumpers in the country will participate in a tournament to be held in Rainier National Park, June 2, 3 and 4, according to plans announced by the Rainier National Park Ski club which was organized here last week.

GOVERNOR STEPHENS

Will Speak at Chamber of Commerce Forum Dinner Tonight

Remember the Time When Photographers Put Head in a Vise?

In the old days the photographer used to enclose your head in a vise, says James W. Foley in "The Listening Post" tonight. From this he draws a lesson which it would be well for you to read. Many of you remember the old method of taking pictures. You all know the new way. But you do not all know how Mr. Foley uses this for his philosophical discussion unless you read "The Listening Post" tonight, and that is why your attention is called to it.

Read what Mr. James says of the flapper, that latest model girl about which the papers are saying so much. Mr. James has a great admiration for the modern, independent, responsible girl and you will be interested in what he says.

Dr. Frank Crane says that the progress of mankind is from noise to music. Della Stewart says it is about time to stop talking about the silliness of flappers, moral delinquencies and such things, and John Pilgrim speaks of the original hard luck person. You will find all this and more on the editorial page this evening. Turn to it.

GOV. STEPHENS TO ADDRESS SUNDAY SCHOOL MEETING

After Forum Reception State's Executive Will Attend Convention

An announcement was made this morning at the chamber of commerce that immediately after the dinner in honor of Governor W. D. Stephens, who will speak to members of the chamber this evening, that the governor, the reception committee, the bodyguard of honor and the military guard will go to the First Methodist church, where the governor will address the Sunday school convention in session there.

Plans for this second address by the governor were perfected this morning by Secretary James M. Rhoades of the chamber, who requested the governor to make the second address. The request was granted.

The guard, escort and official party will present an imposing spectacle as it passes through the streets of Glendale to the Methodist church at the corner of Kenwood and Wilson avenue. One platoon of the California national guard companies stationed in Glendale, will lead the parade. The second platoon will march at the rear of the governor's automobile. The American Legion guard of honor will march on each side of the official automobile. The personal guard of honor, Capt. Thos. D. Watson, First Lieut. Normal C. Hayhurst, and Second Lieut. Harold L. Alexander, of the national guard, will ride in the automobile with the governor.

The entire city is interested in the visit of the governor and telephone calls for reservations at the banquet, which is taking the place of the monthly forum dinner at the chamber of commerce, are coming in constantly. All tickets have been sold and Secretary Rhoades is busy trying to make arrangements to seat every one who desires reservations.

REALTORS PLAN CITY PUBLICITY

Realty Board Decides to Publish Booklet on Glendale

TO BE ILLUSTRATED

Members Back Publication for Distribution at San Francisco

Acting on the suggestion of Dr. Jessie Russell, members of the Glendale Realty Board yesterday, at their weekly meeting and luncheon, decided to publish a descriptive booklet telling of Glendale, its resources and the reasons for the growth of the city.

The book will be the official advertising pamphlet of the organization at the Convention of the National Association of Real Estate Boards to be held in San Francisco, starting May 31.

In suggesting the booklet Dr. Russell said there is no literature available for use at the convention that tells the story of Glendale in a distinctive manner.

She said that the delegation planning to attend this gathering needs a booklet written and illustrated in such a manner that delegates from all parts of the country will keep it and read it after returning to their homes. The literature available at present, according to Dr. Russell, does not fill this need.

Charles B. Guthrie agreed with Dr. Russell and volunteered to give toward its publication. E. P. Hayward, secretary of the board, moved that such a book be published under the direction of the advertising committee with all members of the board assisting. This motion was carried and Mr. Hayward said that he would contribute the $100 just voted him as expense money on the trip to the San Francisco convention to the book fund.

Mayor Spencer Robinson, who is also a real estate dealer, said that he felt sure that the city of Glendale would contribute $100 to the book fund and the matter would be brought to the attention of the council at its next meeting.

Cameron Thom of the Glendale Realty Company and president of the board said that he would give $25 to the fund. W. L. Truitt said he would give another $25.

Tentative suggestions as to the contents of the book were made and it was practically decided that a recent article in the Literary Digest, stating that Los Angeles county leads the nation in agricultural production and that the four next counties of the nation in agriculture are in California, should hold a prominent place, to-

MILITIAMEN MUST BE AT ARMORY TONIGHT

Glendale Companies Ordered to Report for Duty at 5:30

All members of the two California National Guard companies stationed in Glendale, Company M and Headquarters company are ordered to the armory tonight at 5:30 p. m. The two companies are to form the military guard of honor for Governor William D. Stephens, governor of the state and commander-in-chief of the California National Guard.

All men of both companies are notified that it is imperative to be at the armory tonight and in uniform not later than 6 o'clock. The companies will form as one company under the combined command of the officers of both companies. They will form in front of the armory and will march to the chamber of commerce where the company will form a double rank from the sidewalk to the banquet hall of the chamber. The governor will pass through double ranks of soldiers standing at "Present Arms."

After the dinner at the chamber of commerce the company will be formed as an escort and guard for the governor's automobile as it passes through the streets to the Methodist church where the governor will deliver a second address.

Retrospection

With the end of the fiscal year only ten days off, the rounding out the year of business should bring to the average business man retrospection of his failures as well as successes. Without retrospection there cannot be improvement, success, increased efficiency.

Perhaps one of the most glaring inefficiencies of the business pulsation of Glendale is in advertising.

It is still possible in Glendale to lure the average business men with cheap prices into futile booklets, programs, cards and insufficiently circulated advertising catch pennies, and the antiquated and generally discarded dodger practice which has cost so much good will is still rampant.

The lesson of advertising, the cold blooded calculation to get results is still unlearned here.

In other cities such practices are impossible, for the merchants have spent the end of one fiscal year in serious consideration of the benefits received for carelessly placed dollars. They have added up the amount of actual circulation of their advertisement received and have found that the cost which seemed so cheap as it was presented from time to time, was exorbitant. And the results—nothing. Not even the stranger who came peddling the booklet, program, or other excuse for soliciting an advertisement, returned to trade in reciprocity.

In most cities no such appeals are now permitted audience, through the joint action of the merchants and users of advertising space.

Until the merchants of Glendale take thier advertising appropriations seriously, put themselves on a budget, which rigidly excludes expenditures in any advertising without a guarantee of circulation among a certified class of patrons, they will continue to find their advertising as a whole is not profitable.

The average advertiser in Glendale might save at least 25 per cent of his expenditures for advertising during the coming fiscal year if he would lay down one fundamental requirement—circulation. And he would still receive his present return from his advertising, which would then represent a profitable investment, attain a dignity in his business operations and be given the conservative shrewd thought that the average merchant gives to his other buying operations. For in the last analysis, buying of advertising space is on a parity with any other buying. Space once bought leads to profit, if bought right, on a circulation basis, as surely as the purchase and resale of any article of trade.

Pernicious to any business progress, since it actually menaces good will, is the dodger kind of advertising.

Thousands of dodgers are scattered about the streets, wind blows them in motorists' faces, they are flung angrily out of parked cars, they are broomed out of door yards by the hundreds. And every sensation of annoyance is hurtful to the business interests of the advertiser who sent them around in the false idea that he was getting advertising cheaply because they cost so little.

In other cities such distribution is forbidden by ordinance for the merchants themselves have found that it was bad business.

The fragmentary program in which they may be interested, is difficult to resist. Of course the price is cheap. There is comparatively little circulation of programs. None whatever in the affairs did not claim great free space from the newspapers, the established advertising mediums of the city. Of course, the fact that these programs take away from the newspapers part of their revenue, while claiming additional free publicity for the events themselves, "boost" stories, does not enter into the program promoters' mind. The few dollars they receive from the so-called advertising does each affair little good, uses up thousands of dollars' worth of good merchants' money and impedes the usefulness of the newswapers themselves in the free boost of these things.

It has been found that it is impossible for the merchants in a small city to avoid paying tribute to these so-called advertising mediums, but it has been found possible to discourage their efforts through the offer to contribute as a donation, thus reaching the fundamental purpose of the program.

The merchants of Glendale can practically eliminate this waste by simply agreeing to make donations in lieu of advertising. The program coming out without advertising would extinguish itself in the course of time. And there are few peddlers of programs who would repeat their efforts, under the circumstances.

Were these programs of any service either to the merchants as advertising mediums or to the organizations, or of the slightest use in the community, the Glendale Daily Press would hesitate long before it opposed their circulation.

But, in Glendale, where the promotion of every conceivable form of entertainment, for every kind of purpose, meets with ready support, free publicity, long before the events are scheduled, in the daily newspapers, it seems to the Glendale Daily Press that this form of advertising is not justified.

A simple slip of paper, whereon is printed the program and the names of the participants is all that should be necessary.

So the Glendale Daily Press believes that taking account of all the expenditures for the last fiscal year, the merchants of Glendale will figure their advertising appropriation on a basis of circulation, buy it on a basis of profit gaining, not on a speculation. There is no investment where the returns can be so accurately gauged. There is no speculation so wild. If you speculate in your advertising, so enter it on your books. Don't assign it to advertising.

SCHOOL BUSINESS

Superintendent of Schools Richardson D. White will tomorrow attend the meeting of Business Agents recently organized to promote efficiency in the handling of the financial affairs of public schools, to standardize accounts and accounting methods and in every way possible to make for better management of the businesss side of school administration.

The immediate concern of the meeting will be the purchase of school desks and furniture.

HIGH P. T. A. ELECTS MRS. WIDDOWS

Annual Election Is Held in High School Cafeteria

535 ARE MEMBERS

Band Organization Is Discussed With Other Activities

The annual election of officers for the High school Parent-Teacher association took place Wednesday afternoon at their regular meeting held in the school cafeteria.

Those officers elected were, president, Mrs. W. Q. Widdows; vice-president, Mrs. George U. Moyse; secretary, Miss Eva Daniels; treasurer, Mrs. A. G. Bailey of Eagle Rock; auditor, Mr. Baker of the high school faculty and historian, Mrs. Rowley. All were unanimously elected.

The meeting was opened by the salute to the flag which was led by Mrs. E. B. Moore. This was followed by the reading of the minutes of the previous meeting, which were approved. Reports for the year were read by the historian, her report showing that the high school P. T. A. was organized in 1913 and now had a membership of 535. Seven very interesting meetings have been held during the year in which they had tried to obtain interesting speakers who took up topics of vital importance, and the auditor's report which showed a good balance on hand.

It was announced that the Federation picnic would be be held on June 12th at Verdugo Canyon or at the Old Adobe, the luncheon to be served at 12:30. At this meeting, the installation of officers for both the Federation and the Association will take place. All members of different associations are cordially invited.

Plans were discussed for the band to be organized at high school. It was stated that the Chamber of Commerce had donated $25 and other liberal donations had also been received. Announcement was made of the 23rd annual convention of the Congress of Mothers and Parent-Teacher Associations on May 23, 24, 25, and 26th at San Diego. Each association is allowed one delegate for every 25 members and at this rate, Glendale should be well represented. These delegates are in addition to the president or vice-president.

Mr. Ferguson, principal of the night school then gave an interesting talk on just what is being accomplished during the night sessions. He brought out many facts that were not heretofore known, one being that during the year,

ANTI-STREET SIGN ORDINANCE HITS SNAG

Councilmen Split Evenly on Measure Which Is Laid Over

The ordinance prohibiting street signs in Glendale was taken up at last night's meeting of the council and, after considerable discussion, laid over for further consideration. Councilman Lapham said that the real estate men, whom this ordinance will affect most, have been having a hard enough time to make ends meet as it is and that he will not do anything that will make things harder for them.

Councilman Stevenson said that if all the signs were removed all of the operators would have the same chance. He said he is not in favor of having the streets of Glendale cluttered up with signs. As there were two councilmen on either side of the fence the matter was laid over until the return of Councilman Kimlin.

SWIMMING POOL IS TO HAVE GUARD

Applications are being received at the office of the city clerk for the position of caretaker of the municipal swimming pool, which will open in a few weeks. The qualifications of the man who is to hold down this job must be high. He must be a good swimmer, know how to handle boys of all ages, etc. The appointment will be made within a short time.

Bathing Beauty Contest Plan Is Shocking Idea!

LONG BEACH, May 18.—Staid Long Beach is just recovering from the shock and beginning to take a devilish interest in the unprecedented proposal of real estate men to hold a bathing beauty parade here.

The suggestion was made in order to provide an innocent attraction for the land salesmen of the Southland when they hold their annual picnic here May 20.

Such an idea was unheard of and has occasioned considerable comment by members of civic, church and women's organizations of this city, particularly as the real estate men appear to be preparing to carry out their design.

It is reported that on the quiet there is in reality a sly interest in the parade, and that the realty men are so convincing in their defense of the performance that a number of representatives of the most reputable organizations of the city may be induced to enter the parade as contestants.

LOCKJAW - RABIES DEADLOCKS CITY COUNCIL

Absence of Kimlin Prevents Passage of Fireworks Ordinance

There was a little dissension in the minds of the members of the city council last night as to whether or not fireworks shall be allowed in Glendale this year.

When the ordinance forbidding "crackers" in Glendale was brought up for final action, Councilmen Stevenson and Davis stopped its passage with the assertion that they thought the kids in Glendale should be permitted to enjoy an old-fashioned "Fourth." It was their belief, they said, that Glendale should have a regular celebration day.

When speaking to the question, Mayor Robinson said: "Our actions are not consistent. Here we raise a great big stink about rabies in connection with dogs, when far more lockjaw is caused by firecrackers. I believe for the sake of our kids we should forbid them."

Councilman Lapham agreed with Robinson and as Councilman Kimlin was absent there was a deadlock. The matter was laid over until the return of Mr. Kimlin.

GRIFFITH PARK ROAD PLAN IS DEFERRED

Matter Comes Before Council on Request of L. A. Committee

The matter of the road leading from Glendale to Griffith park was taken up at the council meeting last night. A letter was received by that body from the Los Angeles city planning commission, asking that the city decide on a route westward from the city so that the commission can connect up with it on the Los Angeles side.

All of the councilmen were of the opinion that a road from this city to the park is badly needed and it was decided to take the matter up for earnest consideration soon.

"LIBBY RACER" BIKE PICKED UP

Officer Sedden of the police department picked up a "Libby Racer" bicycle in front of the Pacific Electric station late last night and took it up to the city hall. Up to noon today the owner of the two-wheeler had not called for it.

MAYOR ASKED TO RUN FOR SUPERVISOR

Glendale's Executive Is Urged by County Organization

RECORD IS APPROVED

Spencer Robinson Feels Honored But Has Not Yet Accepted

Mayor Spencer Robinson, whose popularity has expanded into the county because of the favorable impression he has created wherever he has gone to represent our city, is paying the penalty of greatness in being asked to "come up higher." He has been requested by the republican county organization to allow his name to be used as a candidate for the office of county supervisor, to which Glendale is really entitled, as the representative not only of her own corporation but the territory to the north and west. It is probable that strong pressure will be brought to bear on His Honor to persuade him to make the run, but he has not indicated as yet what answer he will make.

Glendale loves him for his big heart, his generous interest in others, his civic pride and public spirit, for his hatred of red tape and disposition to get at the heart of any problem without circumlocution. His best recommendation is the fact that he is loved by children and dogs, and both demand sincerity. To put it briefly, the mayor is a friend to every man, woman and child in the city and polled the biggest vote ever cast for a member of the city council.

He came to Glendale many years ago and invested largely in property which has now become very valuable. Having been engaged in the real estate business ever since he chose Glendale for a home, he knows it thoroughly and also knows the county and Southern California. Few men have a better fundamental knowledge of conditions and should he decide to be a candidate and be elected, this fund of information would be of great value to him.

Before he came to California he was a professional singer. He still loves to sing better than he loves anything else he does, and as the public is always eager to hear him he is in great request for programs. But he is generous and always responds whenever it is possible for him to spare the time from his many duties, official and otherwise.

Mrs. Robinson is also a finished musician and their home life is delightful because of this common interest. Both have been the patrons of music in the community and Mrs. Robinson has been the directing genius of the junior auxiliary of the music club, which has made a great record the past year that has attracted favorable comment all over the state.

BACKING PROVED DISASTEROUS ACT

A car operated by M. Johnson of 1269 South San Fernando road, backed into a car owned by Jack Satow of 1519 South San Fernando road in front of the latter's home last night. The radius rod and frame of the Satow car were bent, the right front fender was bent, and the right front tire torn off.

The Barton Bedtime Stories

FRISK LEARNS THAT SQUIRRELS CAN SWIM

By JOHN BARTON

(Copyright, 1921, by Associated Newspapers)

Frisk Squirrel kept very still when his mother popped into their hole in the Squirrel's Willow tree. He wasn't going to tell her he'd been out while she was gone—not he. Nor what a mess he'd got into, nor who pulled him out again. For the Widow Squirrel didn't like ducks. Not since they'd put her out of their nesting Oak—where she had no business to be.

Wasn't he s'prised when she walked right over to him. "Sniff, sniff. What's that mud smell on your coat?" she asked. "You don't live in a mud nest and eat angle-worms like Bobby Robin's fledg-lings. You've been down on the ground—that's where you've been!" Cuff, cuff! She boxed his poor little ears before he had a chance to explain. She hadn't the patience to listen to him, because she knew. She'd seen good Daddy Green-crest cleaning him up again. "Now you'll go to bed without your sup-per," she scolded, "the next time I catch you disobeying."

Poor Frisk. He knew how naughty he had been. But he didn't like being punished all the ever-lasting time. It seemed to him that his head just stopped spin-ning from one pair of slaps when he was getting another one. "I wisht I wath a little duckie," he sulked. "They'th mammy tan't box they'th ears; sche hathn't any paws to thlap with. Only wings."

How nice that would be. For if he were a duck he'd have wings too. And then he could fly. Wouldn't it be grand? Or would it? He'd have to wear feathers on his paws; they'd be awfully hard to climb with. And climb he must; Daddy Green-crest said so and what Daddy Green-crest said surely went—with Frisk. He meant to be the fastest climber and the fartherest jumper in the whole Deep Woods—that would be 'most as good as flying, wouldn't itt?

No, furry folks certainly couldn't fly—but they could swim. After all that mattered more if one lived by a Beaver Pond. Then if he did fall in (as he'd done twice al-ready) he could get out again. His mammy'd never know what hap-pened. Or—and this set him laugh-ing right out loud—what if she did? For she wouldn't be able to catch him! No more boxed ears! Decidedly Frisk must learn.

But how? "Mammy," he cheeped in a wee, small voice, "Tan't th' quirrelses thwin? Ever at all?"

"Not till they get their ear-tufts." She meant not till he was a grown-up squirrel, at least a year old. She didn't want him to try it now and worry her. But Frisk wasn't paying attention.

She Boxed His Poor Little Ears Before He Had a Chance to Explain

NEXT STORY: WHY FRISK NEEDED EAR-TUFTS.

Changes in Service

The following changes are indi-cated by today's public service report:

Hanson, 121 West Chestnut to 121 East Elk; F. W. Franklin, 314 West Cerritos to Gate-way market; M. C. Calkins, 510 Vine to 417 West Lexington; W. A. Hines to 915 South Brand; M. P. Moberly to 373 West Wilson; H. E. Reynolds to 712 South Brand; E. Block to 600 West Vine; S. J. Clausen, Jr., to 121 East Elk; C. A. Patterson to 118 Fairview; W. A. Smith to 376 Salem.

Lighting meters were installed for the following:

A. Burns, 1821 Alpha road; Joseph Kumans, 625 South Brand; Glendale Bootery, 221 North Brand; W. J. Elliott, 540 Fairmont; W. N. Wood-side, 324 Cameron.

The following building permits were issued up to noon today:

C. Earl Russell, 609 West Doran, four rooms, $4000; J. Thomas, 1645 North San Fernando road, oil sta-tion, by Carpenter Bros., $450; Robert P. Kroche, 1429 Stanley avenue, two rooms, $800.

You'll never get back the money you've lost through owning tenant-less property. But you can prevent such losses in the future through advertising.

SIERRA CANYON'S BEAUTY IS ENHANCED

The Pelleys Open Art Home in Gem of the Jewel City

One of the bits of wild loveli-ness most recently added to the necklace of Glendale the Jewel City, is the Sierra district in Sy-amore Canyon. Since its acquisi-tiion with the surety of abundant water service, street improve-ment, sewers, gas, etc., it has drawn lovers of nature who are appreciative of its charm, and homes of beauty to fit the setting are being built there.

Of the pioneers in this move-ment are Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Pelley, who succumbed to its lure two years ago and purchased acre-age on Sierra avenue from John Smalley. On a portion of this, against a hill background, green with young oaks and a tangle of wild growths they have built a most unusual house of plaster ex-terior which is practically comple-ted, lacking only the palm-thatched roof garden, reached by an out-side stone staircase, which will add the finishing touch to the picture.

It is Moorish in design from the arch which is to feature the en-trance upon the paved walk traced in queer semi-circles to the patio porches recessed within buttressed walls which lead to the living rooms within. Here the arched doorways and irregular surfaced walls of Tiffany plaster the cun-ningly painted to indicate a wall worn and cracked, the decoration suggesting a Moorish rug softened by time to neutral tints.

But these soft, pastel colors are repeated more definitely in the landscape decoration of the fire-place picturing a Moorish garden and colonade with a palace in the distance. Of greater interest than the decoration, however, is the quaintly shaped fireplace, the de-sign of Mrs. Pelley which, like many of the other unusual features of the house must be seen to be appreciated.

More lavish in color in the din-ing room where the decorator was given free rein and has painted on the walls charming woodland scenes with a garden approach wherein vines climb the doorways and overrun the arches in lovely confusion. In the connecting liv-ing room, reception room and din-ing room, the ceilings are coved and tinted to harmonize with the wall decoration. Great windows, some of them eight feet wide, re-veal the beauty of the outside land-scape to the far horizon line or hilltop.

There are, of course, bedrooms in which the painted walls are stippled in two-tone monochromes of yellow and tan. There is an ideal and modern kitchen, all white and blue, with a breakfast nook spacious enough for a round table, and a commodious cellar below.

Half the charm of the house is the unusual, unconventional ar-rangement of the rooms, and this as well as all the details of the in-terior and exterior, was worked out by Mr. and Mrs. Pelley. They say they never had so much fun in their lives as they have enjoyed over this creative, constructive task and it has whetted their ap-petites for more. Designs of un-usual houses suited to that environ-ment fairly haunt their pillows at night, and visitors to their home, drawn there by its spreading fame, are beginning to beg them to take commissions to construct houses to order.

They feel especially happy over the work of their interior decora-tor, J. S. Schultz, a Glendalian, who at once understood their aim and proceeded to help them to carry it out, rejoicing in the op-portunity to show what he could do. They explain that Mr. Schultz was a decorator for Tiffany in New York and is accustomed to large and difficult commissions in the way of mural decorations.

The garden they are planning will be sufficiently Spanish in character to provide a suitable setting for their little Moorish pal-ace which they hope will soon be on a boulevard, for a movement is now on to widen and improve Sierra avenue and connect it with Flintridge and with an avenue leading to the Annandale golf links. It will also have connection with the Hill drive from Eagle Rock, which is being put through the McCarthy and Smallman subdivi-sions.

In the rear of the house under a huge oak and looking into a wooded hillside, is a picnic nook where the Pelleys entertain a throng of visitors every Sunday. They are hospitable folk and are delighted to show their house and Sycamore canyon to all comers.

"You have heard what the last witness said," persisted counsel, "and yet your evidence is to the contrary. Am I to infer that you wish to throw doubt on her verac-ity?"

The polite young man waved a deprecating hand. "Not at all," he replied. "I merely wish to make it clear what a liar I am if she's speaking the truth."

MEMORIAL DAY COMMITTEE TO MEET MAY 23

To Endorse Recommendations for Parade in Celebration of Day

A meeting of the main Memorial Day committee was held Tuesday evening at the Intermediate School where the recommendations of the sub-committee of arrangements were presented by Robert Taylor and were ratified. The recommen-dations were:

First: That Col. John D. Fraser, Chief of Police, be appointed Grand Marshall of the Parade.

Second: That all the civic or-ganizations of the city be invited to take part in the parade and ex-ercises with a request that they notify the grand marshall that they will participate.

Third: That a program commit-tee be appointed to arrange for exercises at Forest Lawn, that committee to consist of Comrade Thomas Barrett, Mrs. Lillian Peck-ham, Mattison B. Jones, Mrs. Spencer Robinson, James F. Mc-Bryde, and D. E. Bosford of For-est Lawn Cemetery Association.

Fourth: That a committee to se-cure music be appointed with Col. Everington as chairman.

Fifth: That a committee to se-cure automobiles be appointed to be headed by E. F. Sanders of the Chamber of Commerce as chair-man and to include William H. Reeves, city manager, and R. D. White, superintendent of schools.

Another meeting of the general committee to which all organiza-tions are invited to send represen-tatives, has been called for next Monday evening, May 22, at the Intermediate School, 7:30 p. m.

The inhabitants of a small vil-lage at last got a postoffice, with the grocer for postmaster, and their pride in their acquisition was at first unbonded. When complaints began to come in that letters were not being sent off, the postoffice department sent an inspector to in-vestigate. "What becomes of the letters posted here?" the inspector demanded. "The people say they are not being sent off." "Of course they ain't," was the response as the grocer pointed to a large and nearly empty mail sack hanging in a corner. "Ain't sent it off because it ain't anywheres near full yet."

DR. BOYER TELLS OF LIFE IN AUSTRIA

Writes to Dr. R. V. Hogue of Her Experience in Venice

Mrs. E. W. Kinney of 123 West Elk avenue is in receipt of a card from Dr. and Mrs. Boyer who left here some time ago for Europe and other parts of the East, that they are now at Vienna and Mrs. Boyer is studying music there under very wonderful teachers. She is de-lighted with her work.

Dr. Boyer is taking a post gradu-ate course in medicine under some very able teachers, some of them being the finest in the world.

A Year Ago Today

(From the Glendale Daily Press of May 18, 1921)

Mattison B. Jones, grand high priest of the grand chapter, Royal Arch Masons, State of California, was the guest of honor last night at a dinner given by the Golden West Commandery.

About 75 citizens gathered at the municipal building, Los Feliz and Brand, last night to discuss the question of whether the Forest Lawn Memorial park is to be allow-ed to extend its burial grounds into Glendale.

The school bond election called for May 24 has been postponed, the reason for this action being that there is a question whether the people of the Grand View section are entitled to vote on this occa-sion.

The Parent-Teacher federation of Glendale is planning a benefit spring festival in which eight schools will take part.

A group of local capitalists has just purchased the property at the northeast corner of East Broadway and Maryland. It will soon be improved with a brick store build-ing, it is announced.

A store, long vacant, is a libel on a community. No good store should be without a tenant. Ad-vertise—and keep at it until the tenant is found.

A teacher once told her class to bring something to demonstrate the use of the word "immaterial."

One morning a bright youth brought a big stick.

"Well," said the teacher, "how does that demonstrate the use of the word immaterial?"

"I'll show you, miss," said the boy.

"Now, you take hold of one end, then the other. That's it. Now leave go one end."

"Which end?" asked the teacher.

"Well, it's immaterial, miss," said the boy. "There's molasses on both ends."

FINANCING OF LOT OWNERS HELPS SUBDIVIDERS

W. E. Mercer of 624 East Broadway, opposite the city hall, stated this morning that right at this time there is an unusually active demand for residence lots because so many of the building firms have taken up financing home building for persons who own lots. Mr. Mercer speaks with authority, for after opening his new Kenneth road district tract, he finds an ever increasing demand for lots for just this purpose. All of these lots are covered with orange trees in full bearing.

Mr. Mercer also has lots in other choice sections of the city. Among these are a number of valuable holdings in the section near the new high school. Another territory that is receiving special attention from this firm is the Eagle Glen tract, where the lots are 75 by 175 feet and all covered with orange trees. The restrictions in this tract are $5000, while the restrictions on the lots across the street amount to $7000. All of these tracts are unusually choice for residential purposes and all are receiving close attention from wise home site purchasers.

"Glendale Property Grows"

Beautiful home of M. S. Kuhney, 703 North Jackson, recently constructed by A. T. Gray, contractor and builder —Photo by Dolberg

The unusually attractive home shown in the accompanying illustration was designed and constructed by A. T. Gray of 113 East Broadway, and is one of the most attractive bungalows in Glendale. It has many individual features that make it unusually desirable. It contains six rooms, three of which are bedrooms, these being so arranged that no space is lost in building a hall. T his home has an all-tile bath, tile drainboard, etc. The closets throughout are unusually large, and all of the floors are of hardwood.

Since the construction of this home its exterior appearance, its interior finish and the floor plan have attracted considerable attention among the home builders of this city. So popular is it in every detail that Mr. Gray has been called upon to duplicate this home in one of the beautiful sections located up against the foothills. From roof to cellar it is one of the most attractive homes in Glendale.

SPECIAL PLANS OF FINANCED HOMES

One of the most popular designers and builders in Glendale is A. T. Gray, of 113 East Broadway. For several years he has been building homes in Glendale, and while here has seen this city grow from a babe to a full-grown man, and, needless to say, he has done his share in the upbuilding of Glendale. Before coming here Mr. Gray was in the designing and contracting business in Joplin, Mo. and Phoenix, Ariz., spending a number of years in this business in each of these places.

Mr. Gray was one of the first men in Glendale to put into effect the plan whereby the person with a clear lot may borrow money for the financing of the home. He has been operating under this plan for a long time and constantly has ten homes under construction in Glendale. A specialty of the better class of homes in being made by Mr. Gray. He delights in erecting the better class of dwelling. He knows his business and is willing to give the building the advantage of his many years of experience.

HOME BUILDING IS MOTIF OF CITY

So Asserts Wernette and Sawyer, Realtors and Insurance Men

"Did you ever stop to wonder at and analyze the reason for Glendale being the fastest growing city in the United States?" asked Mr. Wernette of the popular real estate and insurance firm of Wernette & Sawyer, of West Wilson avenue, this morning. "The one thing that impresses every visitor to this city is that nearly every citizen is a home owner. This is essentially a city of homes. Visitors are impressed with the home atmosphere. The desire to be a home owner seems to be contagious. To a greater or lesser degree it is in the blood of every man, and it takes just the opportunity to bring it out.

"Glendale is ideally situated for home owning purposes. It has the elevation, the atmosphere, the sunshine, the location—everything that could be desired by the home owner. This is, we think, the reason why the city is growing as it is."

HARVARD CLEANS TO JOIN MATE

The steamship Harvard, sister ship of the S. S. Yale, will leave the yards of the Los Angeles Shipbuilding and Drydock corporation in her spring coat of spotless white and with gleaming brasses, to join the Yale in the coastwise service between Los Angeles and San Francisco, Monday, May 29. On that date the Harvard makes her first trip for the summer from Los Angeles to San Francisco. Tuesday, May 30, the summer schedule of four sailings, Tuesday, Wednesday, Friday and Saturday from each port, Los Angeles and San Francisco, will go into effect and be maintained until further notice, according to the statement of Ralph J. Chandler, general manager of the Los Angeles Steamship company. In addition to this increased schedule of four sailings weekly, in place of the three sailings weekly, hitherto maintained, Mr. Chandler states that there will be a weekly sailing to San Diego. Commencing with the sailing Wednesday, June 21, from San Francisco, and each Wednesday thereafter until further notice, the vessel arriving at Los Angeles Thursdays at 10 a. m. will sail again from Los Angeles at 3 p. m. for the five-hour run to San Diego, arriving there at 8 p. m. The return sailing will be on Fridays at 9 a. m. from San Diego, commencing Friday, June 23, arriving Los Angeles 2 p. m. and sailing again from Los Angeles at 4 p. m. for San Francisco, to arrive there at 10 a. m. on Saturday mornings.

The extension of this popular coastwise service to San Diego is said to have been arranged to meet the demands for through travel between San Francisco and San Diego, as well as that between San Diego and Los Angeles.

OFFERS TO SCARE OFF WHISKERS

SACRAMENTO, Calif., May 17. An offer to shave any member of the "Days of '49" Whiskers club with a 38-calibre revolver has been made to the Celebration committee by Captain A. H. Hardy, one of the world's leading marksmen.

Hardy, who will give daily exhibitions during the "Days of '49" celebration May 23-28, believes he would be able to give any of the whiskerinos a close shave. Here are a few of his stunts: Hits two small marbles thrown into the air by himself; ejects a 22-cartridge and hits it; cuts a card in two edgewise with either rifle or revolver; hits five targets thrown by himself, using an ordinary pump gun; shoots a perfect profile of any picture the crowd suggests; shoots ashes off cigarets.

So, if any whiskerino has confidence in the prowess of Captain Hardy to the extent of volunteering his face for a "gunpowder shave" the captain will accommodate him.

WATER AND POWER ACT

Sometimes a proposed measure is so monstrously bad that the good faith of its framers is at once called into question. That they could deceive the public into support of a measure not only without merit, but actually grotesque in its absurdity and injustice, hardly could they themselves have believed. Therefore their motive at once comes into question. It may be their real intent is to injure the principles they profess to support, making these principles to appear ridiculous. These thoughts come to mind in contemplation of the "Water and Power Act."

The voters of California should take pains to familiarize themselves with the form and effect of such a freak of legislation. In brief, the act is wholly without shade of redeeming quality. It would mortgage the state for an indefinite time, put into the hands of an unknown group more power than any group worthy of confidence would be willing to accept. It would leave the public helpless. This group would be above control by people or officials. It would go into office unhampered and unrestrained, at liberty to spend money as it might desire, to pay itself and its subordinates whatever salary it chose. There would be none to call it to account. Within itself would be concentrated the only authority it would be required to recognize. It would be a government within a government, more potent than that which includes a governor and law-making bodies.

To sustain this dangerous and anomolous act at the polls would mean disaster. It would mean the ruin of credit. The people are asked to sanction the issue of $500,000,000 in bonds. The money so raised is to be placed in the hands of five men appointed by the governor. With this the executive authority ends. The men may do as they please with the money. A large sum for politicians to play with; a sum larger by $140,000,000 than required to construct the Panama canal.

The proposition is designed as an amendment to the constitution. It could, as an amendment be changed only by the giving of additional powers to a few men already given more power than any ever before has had the unspeakable insolence to ask. The measure as it stands is an insult. It is worth while to present here an epitome of the scheduled plan of enslaving the people of a state, and placing a mortgage upon every piece of their property:

The board can employ as many people as it desires, naming all the salaries, and disregard all civil service regulations;

It may confiscate and take possession of property, acting as its own judge and jury, this provision rendering ownership of property unsafe;

It may engage in any business, even manufacturing, becoming thus the rival of commercial enterprises;

It may take out of the state treasury at will any sums to meet default on the $500,000,000 principal and interest. These sums must be returned to the treasury by taxation;

It may dispose of funds as it pleases, these not having to be covered into the state treasury;

It may make any rates it desires to meet payrolls, overhead charges, principal and interest;

It may take away any undeveloped water power anywhere, unless this be developed according to its orders;

It may spend the $500,000,000 or any part of the bond outside the state;

It may issue additional bonds (needing in this the consent of the governor) to make good shortages due to failure of revenues from operation of its projects.

It may perpetuate itself in office, with the consent of the governor, but at no time may the people have a voice as to personnel of the board.

To set forth the character of the measure more fully must be left to another time. Enough to say now that the "Water and Power act" was conceived in iniquity, that it is designed for the spoliation of the public, and the building up of a political machine so powerful that this great commonwealth would be crippled, ravaged, helpless as it fell into financial chaos.

The measure should not command a single vote. It might be expected to draw the votes of the schemers, and those in quest of perpetual jobs. It deserves not only to be rejected but utterly spurned.

THE CONFERENCE OVER

The Genoa conference, born in hope, passed out without fixing the destinies of Europe. It has not even succeeded by despair. There is no assurance that it has not accomplished something definite. The time is too early for judgment. But certainly, such work as was in the minds of the projectors of this gathering still remains to be done. Already there is talk of a second attempt to reach an understanding. Doubtless the presence of Russia, and its treaty with Germany were elements that disconcerted the conference. It does not appear that Russia was on the same in good faith. On the contrary the demands it made were preposterous, as it must have known when it made them. It demonstrated above all else that its statesmen do not think in the terms of civilized government. They constituted an alien and wholly non-assimilable element.

The treaty between Russia and Germany may be less momentous than many commentators think it. Russia, boasting of its intellect, Lenine, heralded as the greatest of minds, have proved that they lack mental capacity to grow a bushel of wheat, transport it to the mills and form it into a loaf for the victims of their famine. Soviet Russia has made a famine. It has rendered sterile its fertile fields. This is not the expression of superior mentality. Russia has a great army that lives by preying on the remnant of industry. Its soldiers serve because in this way they live without work.

Germany is in thrall to creditors. It may formulate great plans of co-operation with the beggared soviet government, but to carry out these plans would require the consent of the allies. So far as may be surmised, France, as one of the allies, will be disinclined to let Germany have free rein. An ado over a treaty to which Russia is party, must be regarded as being an ado about nothing.

Europe went into conference with problems to settle, and emerged with them unsettled. This does not exhaust possibility.

PROTEST FROM ALASKA

A correspondent familiar with Alaska says that the territory has been ruined by Washington bureaucracy. It is possible that he writes under the sway of prejudice, and yet the facts he cites appear to be convincing. His statement is that a place of vast natural wealth has had its progress arrested, and has been forced into poverty by government meddling. If his allegations are true, they call for remedy. It ought not to be beyond the intelligence of the authorities to undo the mischief. Even if the charges are exaggerated or colored, or reflect individual bias, there is a call for investigation.

The ignorance of the east concerning the west is profound and abyssmal. To many members of congress and to others in administrative circles, Alaska is a mere name even yet. They certainly are less aware of its location and its character than they are of the hither side of the moon, perversely concealed from human view. In a sense, it is absurd that such congressmen should legislate about Alaskan interests.

When the wealth of Alaska first was revealed, capitalists sought to get control of it. The government undertook to retain control of at least a part. The result seems to have been a contest in which both have lost. The influences that together might have worked for good, offset each other, and led to stagnation.

Doubtless the day of Alaska is to dawn anew. The territory is too great in area and too splendid in resources to be permitted to remain one of the waste places of the earth.

Conan Doyle says he likes American audiences. Of course he does. They pay well to hear him, and listen with respect. Even if they think his talk illogical, they remember him as the creator of Sherlock Holmes, who impressed them as being logic in the concrete.

FROM NOISE TO MUSIC

By DR. FRANK CRANE

The progress of mankind is from noise to music. Even as the development of the universe is from chaos to stars, from nebular drift to planetary orbits.

Carlyle said something to the effect that every truth is musical.

DR. FRANK CRANE

The most distressing fact about our cities is that they are noisy.

The streets are full of the din of trucks thundering over rough cobble stones, of street cars and elevated trains crashing along in deafening violence; and, as if this were not enough, the newsboys and hawkers add their human stridence to the wild cacophony.

It is a wonder that human beings can adapt themselves to this racking clangor, and that we can have any gentle thoughts whatever, or any acts of order and of peace, in the midst of such uproar.

There is one reason why this noise is permitted, and that is that we are all still such savages and so fully venerced with civilization that we like it. We even take pride in the city's intolerable racket and are lonesome when we have to sleep in the country unaccompanied by any sounds except those of the katydids.

One of the most recent additions to the civic hubbub is the brazen throated automobile horn. What the motor car has gained in the silence of its rubber tires it has made up by the shrieking chorus of its sirens.

A celebrated nerve specialist has declared that if something is not done to mitigate the tooting of motor horns nervous disorders will seriously increase, and he even claims to have tracked a new malady which he blames entirely upon the discordant blasts from taxicabs.

The remedy he suggests is simple.

He would have a law passed making it compulsory to tune all motor car horns to the arpeggios of a certain key. Thus, if the key of C be selected, one taxicab will be tooting in C, taxi Number 2 will be yodelling in E, Number 3 will take the more strenuous note of G, while Number 4 might complete the octave with a high C.

If something like this could be done, the thick stream of automobiles along Fifth avenue might be "one grand, sweet song." And instead of the roar of the street drowning one's conversation and stunning one's thought as if with a combination of the cries of all the beasts escaped from a menagerie, the bombardment of a besieged city, the tumult of Niagara, and the wrath of all the angry gods of Olympus, we ladies might do our shopping to the music of the band, even as we take our lunch to the seductive pleasings of the orchestra.

Here, boy, bring us the Thesaurus. We need words. Voila! Enough of this loudness, hubbub, bobbery, fracas, charivari, tintamarre, multisonous clangor, obstreperousness, jingle, chink, clank, guggle and reverberance, this sibilation, sternutation, hiss, buzz, whiz, rustle, snuffle, sizzle, swish, creaking, stridor and caceophy, this grating, jarring, piping, twanging, jangling, yelping and squealing, and give us that music which is the "speech of angels" and "will sing the savageness out of a bear."

AT THE LISTENING POST

In the old days the photographer used to enclose your head in a vise.
So you had no freedom of action.
You could not move and spoil the picture.
And so you spoiled the picture anyway.
Just because you could not move.

Your photograph had the likeness of the acute misery you had undergone.
When you were held stiff and motionless.
And the photographer told you to look pleasant.
And how could you look pleasant?
When there was nothing to look pleasant about.

Later the photographers discovered that pleasant looks were not to be had by compulsion.
By mere direction.
By enclosing your head in a vise and asking you to grin.
And so they changed method.

They sought to engage you with pleasant thought or suggestion and then they caught you unawares.
And had your likeness before you knew it was being taken.
And the picture looked more like you.

All of which proved that you can't look pleasant by force of direction.
Indeed, you look anything but pleasant.
You look miserable.
Stiff and self-conscious and unlike yourself.
Because to look like yourself, you need to be caught unawares.

When the natural thinking of you is having its effect in your appearance.
When the smile that is bubbling within you is showing itself in your countenance.
When you are engrossed with work, perhaps.
And your mind is taken off yourself.
And fixed on your work.

You can direct laughter.
But you don't get it.
You get a counterfeit imitation of it, as we hear on the stage often.
A shrill and unnatural cackle.
Nobody by force of will ever laughed naturally.
Something was lacking.

You can direct a lot of things.
You can compel labor.
But you get only the patient toiling of the drudge.
You get no spirit with it.
But if you invite labor.
If you get the spirit of work into the person who toils.
You get beauty in work.

So we find that in nature we get little by compulsion.
You can't compel a seed to germinate by force.
You can't get knowledge into minds by force.
You can't compel religion or education or good nature or service, or anything that comes out of the human spirit by force.
You can only get it by invitation.

You can invite the merry laughter of human souls.
You can invite their best effort.
You can invite kindness and good nature and helpful service.
But you can't force, command, demand or compel.
For then you get only mechanical simulation of reality.

JAMES W. FOLEY.

SONGS OF THE POETS

Aladdin—By James Russell Lowell (1819-1891)

When I was a beggarly boy,
And lived in a cellar damp,
I had not a friend nor a toy,
But I had Aladdin's lamp;
When I could not sleep for the cold,
I had fire enough in my brain,
And builded, with roofs of gold,
My beautiful castles in Spain!

Since then I have toiled day and night,
I have money and power good store,
But I'd give all my lamps of silver bright
For the one that is mine no more.
Take, Fortune, whatever you choose;
You gave, and may snatch again;
I have nothing 'twould pain me to lose,
For I own no more castles in Spain.

EASTERN POINT OF VIEW

FIT NAVY AND FIT ARMY

[Washington Star]

Well, the little navy men lost in the first test in the house. The argument and the President's firm attitude counted against them. They stressed economy, and what they conceived to be the spirit, the example, of the four-power treaty. But it was shown that they were mistaken on both points; that neither economy nor the treaty was properly quotable on their side of the contention; that, on the contrary, true economy and the true spirit, the obligations of the treaty called for a liberal support of the navy.

Now, why not an army adequately provided for? The argument is the same. The work of the army is cut out for it, and as cut out, should be performed. We look to the army as well as to the navy for invaluable services in times of pinch. But we cannot reasonably expect those services rendered unless both army and navy are made, and kept, fit.

Only perfervid milleunialists anywhere are figuring on early and complete disarmament. Practical men in all countries charged with the practical affairs of government are keeping their eyes peeled for danger. Impressed as all have been with the horrors of war, none is hugging to his bosom the delusion that such horrors have definitely passed, and that mankind today stands convinced that they will never return.

They may return at any time. They have the trick of returning, unexpectedly, and disastrously, or at least most expensively, to nations unprepared for a visit.

JUST BETWEEN OURSELVES

By DELLA STEWART

Let's stop talking about the excesses and indecencies of the present, the silliness of the flappers and the moral delinquencies of the multitude. Those things always have been, and we have no reason to expect the millennium today. All this clamor about them in the average mind is in reality an encouraging symptom.

For if we saw a purple house with orange trimmings and blue blinds, on the porch of which sat a red dog teasing a green cat, the latter emitting frightened "Ra-a-as," we'd hurry to tell every one about it. Why? Because it was so unusual—so striking. But a white house with green blinds, guarded by a black and tan dog and a white cat would never strike us as worthy of a second thought. Again, why? Because such are so very common. We see them about us every day. The talk of the day is grounded on much the same principle.

We seize with avidity the odd, the bizarre, the purple houses and the red dogs as texts for our writing and our conversations. They are "news." Simple quiet living is not. It is all about us, much as it has always been. It prevents the radicals from sweeping the country off its feet, just as it hindered revolutions and the slaughter of fundamental truths from the infancy of the world. Today wherever we live we can find virtuous wives, faithful husbands, obedient children, sane living, happy homes without looking far afield. God pity the country if we could not.

What should concern us is that we rightly place the emphasis. Exotic growths die quickly in unfavorable soil. So will many of the follies of today—if we do not take them over-seriously and so foster growth by attention.

NEGROES ATONE FOR CRIME

[The Continent]

In the great "city of color" which constitutes the heart of the Harlem section of New York city, a colored youth killed two white policemen in cold blood. The colored people of the community organized a benefit entertainment for the relief of the widows of the policemen and carried to them a generous sum of money as a token of sympathy for them and of abhorrence for their black neighbor's frightful act. Adding their reparation to the fact that negroes revealed the criminal's hiding place, a colored minister reported it to the police and a colored magistrate at great personal risk effected his arrest, the candid white man must acknowledge that the negro race is redeeming itself from the accusation that it shields its criminals from justice and puts race feeling ahead of citizen duty. The negro people are not by nature lawless, and are highly unlikely to hide criminals where the lynch horror does not hang over them.

COMMENT ON DAY'S NEWS

By HENRY JAMES

Discussion of the flapper reveals that there are various meanings to that term. At least the discussions have ranged over the entire field of youthful feminity, excluding only the excessively prim.

HENRY JAMES

If a girl shows a spirit of independence, if she puts emphasis on the fact that as a human being she has certain rights, including that of shaping her own deportment, at once she is a flapper.

Let her dress according to personal taste, wear her hair the length she wants it, and a skirt deemed by herself comfortable and becoming, and at once she is given a place in the flapper ranks.

She may be a dutiful daughter, a bright student, an acceptable sweetheart, and really hold serious views concerning a career, domestic or otherwise, but flapper she is, because gossips gossip about her, and say that's what she is.

If the girl is a vain and frivolous thing, thinking more of her lipstick than of her lessons, wearing a bogus eyebrow and carmine cheeks from between which protrudes a whitewashed nose, above it dyed eyelashes drooping in the effort to be seductive, she, too, is a flapper.

In talking about flappers, then, people have in mind some special type that may be very different from the type in the mind of another. Hence there are many wasted words.

The modern girl is independent, recognizing that her soul is her own, and is willing to be responsible for her conduct. She says in effect that people who don't like it may lump it, and goes on about her business. Fastening the title of flapper to her doesn't classify her at all.

However, it may be admitted that the ingenuity of the persons determined "to get" Tom Woolwine takes a surprising turn every little while.

Kipling has produced a new poem. Perhaps it lacks the trumpet-like note of some of his former work. This, however, is not being considered here. He has told in the poem of visits to the tombs of solder-dead, and thus he closes:

There can no knowledge reach the grave
To make them grudge their death,
Save only if they understood
That, after all was done,
We they redeemed denied their blood
And mocked the gains it won.

If this bitter arraignment of England is warrantable it could be expanded to embrace every element of civilization that was massed to resist the German onslaught.

Has not even America forgotten that its sons, who died on French soil were there in behalf of principle? They were fighting for liberty, justice and peace.

The messenger who shot a train robber finds that he is a hero. He not only was brave to kill the robber, a task involving definite risk, but he defied a lot of precedents.

In most cases it is considered good form to permit a train robber to work his will, and not be troubled by obstinacy on the part of the victims.

For eight years the forces of the Red Cross have been working in Europe. The effect of their splendid beneficence is hardly to be estimated. In the eight years the expenditure was $100,000,000. This meant great generosity on the part of the public, and devotion on the part of the organization.

That the Red Cross is about to withdraw from European activities is the strongest indication yet received that Europe is getting back to a normal ability to feed and clothe itself.

WATCHING THE PARADE

By JOHN PILGRIM

Ever since I can remember I've been sorry for Jimmy Fletcher. He has been the original hard luck person of my acquaintance. Not hard luck, either, come to think about it. Hard work, rather. He had his nose to the grindstone so long that it gave out sparks like a dynamo.

"He was a wonderful son," Mrs. Pilgrim sighs.

I'll say he was. Also a wonderful husband and brother and uncle and aunt. He quit school when he was just a kid to go to work and support the family. He has never quit working. He furnished his mother a fine home and helped his brother through school, and married a wife who turned invalid right away, and has been the ready relief for the younger members of the outfit every time they got into a hole.

"I cannot understand," my wife says, "how he managed to accumulate his property."

Well, I can. Jimmy isn't the speculative sort. He is the slow, go-easy, save-a-little kind. Every time he got a dollar that was not demanded by some doctor or schoolmaster or crutchmaker or undertaker, he riveted that dollar to something. He hasn't been a sparkling business man, but he has been the dependable sort. If you gave Jimmy an order it was filled, and if he said he would deliver the goods at 6:19 p. m., the flivver was backing up at 6:18. Nothing showy, if you get me, but plenty of hard work.

Then all his handicaps to progress passed away. His mother got married again, which isn't a ladylike thing for a mother as old as she is to do, but she did it. His wife died, and his brother paid him back the borrowed money, and the kids stopped worrying him, and some rotten stock that he had taken in as lagniappe in a forgotten deal suddenly made him rich, and he was able to quit work. And we all rejoice sincerely.

The trouble is that Jimmy has gone utterly and completely to the devil. He is a moral and physical ruin, and if he can manage to live long enough he will be a financial ruin, too. It looks to me as though it was hard work and necessity that held James together. They were the bolts that held his bedplates on the bottom. Now his loose engine is kicking itself overboard.

EUGENE LINDGREN IS GIVEN A SURPRISE

Eugene Lindgren was delightfully surprised Tuesday evening at his home, 431 West Lexington, by his mother, in celebration of his 15th birthday. She invited a group of his chums in to spend the evening, and at the close of a program of games and stunts, served a supper. The guests who enjoyed her hospitality and made things pleasant for Eugene were Richard Jones, Warren Rigdon, Joseph Nerthler, Raymond McCand, Fred Fallis, Maurice Kennedy and Hughlet Wilson. The honoree was the recipient of many appreciated gifts.

MISS RITA HAGEN BECOMES MRS. FRANK TURK

Nuptials Held at Home of Groom Are Followed by Merry Party

Miss Rita Hagen and Fred Turk were married at the home of the groom, 814 East Orange Grove avenue, at 7:30 o'clock last night, Rev. E. E. Ford, pastor of the First Baptist church, officiating. Clarence Edwards served as best man while Miss Margaret Weaver was maid of honor. Only very close friends and relatives of the bride and groom were present when the ceremony was performed.

Mr. Turk is a master plumber and has been in Glendale for more than a year. Miss Hagen arrived with her mother from the east recently. Mr. and Mrs. Turk and Mrs. Hagen will reside at 814 East Orange Grove avenue.

Everything accompanying this wedding was on an interesting nature. The exterior of the home was very prettily decorated with a choice assortment of tin cans, old shoes, and everything that goes with them, as was the "official" car. These attractive appointments were accompanied by all the necessary and customary noise and hilarity.

After the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served, after which the entire party adjourned to the Knights of Pythias hall at Brand and Park, where dancing was enjoyed until the "wee" hours.

MRS. INGLEDUE HOSTESS TO MISSIONARY GROUPS

Mrs. C. W. Ingledue of 501 East Wilson avenue entertained the Lucy Webb Hayes group of the Women's Home Missionary society of the First Methodist church, and has as other guests members of the missionary societies of the Casa Verdugo, Central avenue and Pacific avenue Methodist churches. An abundance of roses and greenery were used in decorating the rooms, and at the close of a delightful afternoon punch and home-made cookies were served. Mrs. Ingledue was assisted in serving by her daughters, Mrs. Ellis Thomas and Miss Helen Ingledue.

Mrs. H. O. Sisson, district president from Pasadena, was present and gave a splendid report of the hospital work and of the Esther Home at San Diego.

Mrs. B. F. Geiger, president of the auxiliary at the First Methodist church, told of the successful group plan they have used during the past year. Mrs. Jones of the Casa Verdugo church gave 2 readings, and Mrs. Sayler sang two delightful solos.

Miss Alice Lookabaugh gave a clever pianologue and a reading. The afternoon was a pleasing one. There were about 40 guests present.

HUTTON HOME IS SETTING OF PARTY

Mrs. George Mercer and Mrs. F. W. Pigg were guests of honor Wednesday afternoon at a party given by Mrs. Eva M. Hutton and Mrs. Mary Shropshire of 326 East Colorado street. Mrs. Mercer leaves for the east next Thursday and Mrs. Pigg will leave the following Friday, June 2.

The spacious room of the Hutton home were fragrant with pink and white roses which were combined with greenery. After an enjoyable afternoon of games and a splendid program, pink and white refreshments were served to 66 guests, who included members of the Ladies' Aid society of Central Christian church and the Loyal Women's Bible class.

Mrs. Edgar Lloyd Smith rendered a beautiful vocal solo and Mrs. Pigg also sang several solos, accompanied each time by Mrs. M. C. Musser. Mrs. Floyd Mercer and Mrs. R. P. Jodon sang a pretty duet. Mrs. J. H. Daugherty and Mrs. Bertha Jackson McKee each gave clever recitations, and Miss Pearl Maus of Pomona also gave a reading. This program was followed by games in connection with traveling. The entire afternoon proved an enjoyable one.

WHITE SHRINERS INITIATE MEMBERS

The newly organized White Shrine of Jerusalem, which met Wednesday night at the Masonic Temple, was able to initiate two new members after all. Though the charter had not arrived, a special permit for the initiation was received by telegram from Miss Henshaw, supreme high priestess.

Candidates initiated were Mrs. Nina King and Mrs. Margaret Costello. The work was put on with a perfection which excited the admiration of all present, and the result of this test has given the officers a degree of confidence which will make future work the easier.

The officers chiefly employed in the ceremonies were: High priestess, Mrs. Orma Naudain; queen, Mrs. Leland; king, Mr. Bourne; worthy shepherdess, Mrs. Warren Roberts; worthy guard, Mrs. Bourne; worthy chaplain, Mrs. Eva Vesper; worthy herald, Mrs. Mae Warrick; worthy prophetess, Mrs. Pierce; warder, Mrs. McMillan; three wise men, Messrs. Leland, Roberts and Watson; three handmaidens, Mesdames Cutting, Phillips and Watson.

Following the initiation a social hour was enjoyed during which refreshments were served. All members, officers and attendants on the king and queen were present, the shrine now having a membership of about 75.

THE DANIELS GIVE A JOLLY BUNKO PARTY

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Daniels of 362 West Harvard street entertained Wednesday night with a jolly bunko party at their home. The decorations were carried out in yellow and green, daisies being used. After a very delightful evening of bunko, in which Mrs. Frances Gordon was awarded ladies' first prize and M. B. Durrette won gentlemen's first prize, the hostess served delicious refreshments.

The guests were Mr. and Mrs. Andy R. Anderson, Mr. and Mrs. Francis Gordon, Lieut. and Mrs. M. B. Durrette from Albambra, Mrs. G. F. Ayala, Miss Jean Barlow, Miss Dorothy Hunt, Miss Gertrude Killick, Miss Louise Ayala, Miss Gertrude Champlain, Miss Laura Anderson, Miss Clarize Ayala, Miss Marion Anderson, Victor Killick, Kenneth Erb, George Sapp, Albert Sullivan and Arthur Sherbourne.

BOYERS REMEMBER GLENDALE FOLKS

Dr. R. V. Hogue of the First National bank building, is in receipt of a very interesting letter from Dr. Boyer, who is studying medicine in Vienna. Mrs. Boyer is with him, and is spending her time studying music. A copy of his letter follows:

"Vienna, Austria,
"April 28, 1922.

"Dear Dr. Hogue:

"I can hardly realize that we have been away from Glendale two months. Neither can I realize how far we are from home, but when it takes 24 days for a letter to reach us, then we know it is a long, long way to California.

"I am so busy the weeks go by like days. There is about 75 American doctors here taking post-graduate work. All fully agree that there is no place in the world where they are giving the work as well as they do here. I am pleased beyond all expectation with the course I am getting. The instruction starts at 8 a. m. and keeps up until 8 or 10 p. m., either in private or class as you wish. They charge by the hour for teaching. They have an unlimited number of patients to demonstrate the work on. Nearly all sick people here go to the hospital for treatement. The hospitals are supported by the government and the patients are treated accordingly. Our Americans would never tolerate what they have to submit to here.

"Conditions are very bad. A girl clerking in a store, I am told, gets the equivalent to $1 a month, a bank clerk $8, and food costs nearly as much as in Los Angeles. Sugar 6 cents, bread, butter and meat about the same as in Glendale. Clothing is some cheaper, probably half. I really do not know how they live. The waiter told me none of the Venetian people can eat here at the hotel, it costs too much.

"They treat the American people very nice, in fact, have a very kindly feeling for Americans and many express a wish that they could become a colony of America.

"Their money is practically worthless. The cronin, regular value 20c, now 100 costs is .01 1-3 cents. They have raised the price of their goods to correspond so nearly everything you buy costs thousands or tens of thousands. They have raised the price of their good so the Venetian people cannot buy them, and with the heavy duty they have levied, their goods do not attract the foreigners any more, so they cannot sell their goods to anyone. They cannot reduce the prices as they have no raw material, it must be imported and with their low money value they must pay more than most any other country so they seem to be up against a stone wall.

"It is really pathetic, as they are a pleasant class of people, hard workers, and with all their troubles are very cheerful.

"There are many things I might write about but have so little time. I am tried when I get through with the work of the day, then after dinner which is usually quite late, I write up my notes, then I am usually glod to go to bed.

"Hope everything is going well in Glendale. We will be glad to get back. Every dissatisfied American should be sent over here or to Italy. If he should spend one week in either place, he would be a better American citizen.

"I would not give five dollars for both countries if I had to live in them permanently.

"With best of wishes to everybody in Glendale; your sidekicker, (signed) Boyer."

MUTUAL READING CIRCLE PLANS NEW WORK

Parliamentary Class to Meet Friday Morning at Library

At the regular meeting of the Mutual Benefit Reading Circle, held in the library, Wednesday, announcement was made of the parliamentary law class being organized for the benefit of new association officers. This class will hold its first meeting Friday morning at 10 o'clock in the juvenile room of the public library under the direction of Mrs. P. S. McNutt and will meet every Friday thereafter until school closes.

Mrs. H. V. Henry told the circle members of the fine poster drawn by Miss Chambers, supervisor of drawing in the local schools, which was sent as a display from the reading circle to the exhibit held in connection with the state convention of Parent-Teacher associations, meeting at San Diego. "This poster," said Mrs. Henry, "is one of which the reading circle may well be proud and sincere praise is due Miss Chambers for her fine work."

An article from a current magazine, on immigration problems, entitled "The Stranger Within Our Gates," was reviewed by Mrs. C. L. Viereck. This article dealt with the hardships being wrought by the new immigration law, recently enacted, and cited instances where much needless suffering was caused through various phases of its operation.

"The Religious Nurture of a Little Child," written by Frederick W. Langford, was studied and discussed in the afternoon, Mrs. H. V. Henry reading. The article for the next meeting will be on "Building Personality," and will be read by Mrs. McLane.

PUBLIC SCHOOLS MAY BE OPENED IN CHURCHES

Glendale may be forced to hold school in the city's churches, next year.

Richardson D. White, superintendent of schools, was busy this morning trying to figure out how many new teachers will be required for the grammar schools of Glendale next year. The additional teachers it was found necessary to employ last year represented 14 percent of increase. It will probably be a larger percent this year and will mean 15 to 20 new instructors. The board of education will have the problem put up to it at its next meeting when it is probable that a considerable proportion of the required teachers will be elected.

An even bigger problem will be the accommodation of the pupils at certain of the grammar schools which are now full to overflowing, and to which no additions are being made, notably Broadway, Doran, Pacific avenue and Colorado.

How to provide these extra accommodations in a way which will cause the least expense to taxpayers, will be the problem over which the board will have to expend considerable study.

One solution which has been suggested tentatively, is the possible use of certain of the churches located near the congested schools, such as the present edifice of the Glendale Presbyterian church.

The legality of using churches has been threshed out in Los Angeles and it is possible if the church and the school can come together in the matter, it may be one of the means of relieving the situation.

Another possible remedy is the purchase of more of the portable bungalows of the type bought last year. Three were purchased which will continue to be used the coming school year. They are so constructed by being bolted instead of nailed together that they can be easily moved in sections or can be separated and piled onto trucks and transported for any distance. They are, for that reason, valuable property for a school district to have in reserve.

The crowding at Cerritos will be entirely removed by the completion of the Park avenue Intermediate which will also relieve the present Intermediate appreciably.

Purely Personal

Ed Nisle, clothier of South Brand boulevard, motored to Riverside Monday, where he acted as best man at the wedding of a friend. He returned to Glendale Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. W. I. Butterfield, son, Paul, and daughter, Barbara, of Lomita, Calif., were guests on Sunday of Mrs. C. C. Butterfield and son, Frank, of 1246 East California avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Wilson of 511 East Harvard street are happy over the arrival of a baby boy this morning at the Glendale hospital and sanitarium.

Little Bonnie Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Smith of 312 North Kenwood street, who has been ill with scarlet fever, is much better and expects to return to her school work next week.

H. P. Courtney of 217 South Orange street who sprained his foot sometime ago, is now able to have his shoe on again.

Mrs. Fannie Marple of 215 West Palmer avenue underwent a major operation Wednesday morning at the Glendale hospital and sanitarium and is getting along very nicely.

Mrs. R. L. Brownfield of 351 Ivy street and infant son, were taken home Wednesday morning from the Glendale hospital and sanitarium.

Mrs. Almira Ferris of Los Angeles, formerly of Chicago, is spending the day with Dr. Hannah L. Hukill of 102 West California avenue.

Mrs. E. L. Bertholf from Ohio, who has been visiting Mrs. J. A. Wright of 118 South Maryland avenue, is now spending some time with Mrs. C. . Gruendyke of 405 Burchett street.

HOOVER WATCHES COAL PROFITEERS

WASHINGTON, May 18.—Secretary of commerce Hoover today called upon the coal producers of the country not to take advantage of the coal strike to "gouge" the public.

In opening the conference of operators here, Hoover said the government did not possess the power to regulate the disposal and price of coal, stating that any action along those lines must be voluntarily on the part of the operators.

STEEL MERGER PROBE IS NOW STAGED

WASHINGTON, May 18.—Attorney General Daugherty will take immediate action on the senate resolution directing him and the federal trade commission to make inquiry regarding the proposed merger of several independent steel companies.

He will meet with representatives of the steel companies planning to join the merger here Saturday, it was announced today at the department of justice. Eight companies are to be represented at the meeting, Daugherty said.

SPRING LURE

CLEVELAND, May 18.—Eight to ten children have run away from home every day since Monday. Police attribute it to spring wanderlust.

Old Major Shrappel was walking with a friend when they passed a pretty girl. At once the major turned to his companion with a smile.

"There," he said triumphantly, "did you see that charming young lady smile at me?"

"Oh, that's nothing to worry about," his friend replied, consolingly. "The first time I saw you I laughed out loud, but I soon got used to your face."

REORGANIZATION OF SHRINE CLUB IS EFFECTED

Action Follows Resignation of Cliff E. Neale As President

A complete reorganization of the Shrine club of Glendale was brought about last night by the resignation of Cliff E. Neale as president. The other officers of the club, with the exception of Dan Campbell who is treasurer of the club, tendered their resignations. E. F. Heiser was elected president and D. Ripley Jackson vice president. Julius Kranz, former vice president was among the officers who resigned their posts. Charles Hahn of the real estate firm of Hahn & McKenzie, was elected secretary to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of F. R. Gartley.

The resignation of Mr. Neale as president of the Shrine club followed close on the dissolution of the partnership of the Neale and Gregg hardware store in which D. L. Gregg purchased the interests of his partner. It is understood that Mr. Neale has also sold his property interests in Glendale and will move to San Francisco, where he will engage in the hardware business.

The election of new officers to the Shrine club necessitated a reorganization of all standing committees. The following members of the club were appointed chairmen of the committees with the privilege of selecting their coworkers: Entertainment committee, Robert R. McKenzie; sick committee, Dr. James A. Bellyea; refreshment committee, H. C. Vandewater; music committee, Mr. Kelley, who is connected with the J. A. Newton Electrical company. The male chorus will be headed by D. Ripley Jackson. Lloyd Wilson is chairman of the publicity committee.

After the election of officers and the appointment of the new committee chairmen the regular business was transacted. The principal business was the perfecting of plans by the new officers for the entertainment of visiting Shriners passing through Glendale en route to the San Francisco convention in June.

It was decided that the local club should establish a headquarters and information bureau in the business district of Glendale during convention week for the benefit of visiting Shriners. The location of this bureau has not been decided yet.

The publicity committee is having banners prepared with the name of Glendale and the official city slogan printed on them to be displayed at the depot as a welcome to all Nobles passing thru the city.

Mr. McKenzie has been appointed chairman of a committee to meet all trains at the Glendale depot and a sub-committee to meet all trains in Los Angeles. This committee will greet the visiting Nobles and bid them welcome to Glendale.

Entertainment and refreshments will be provided in this city for the Nobles and it is possible that those having time will be taken on a sight-seeing tour of the city and surrounding country.

She entered the editor's room with determination plainly visible on her face.

"I have written a poem on 'The Dear Old Garden Gate,' and——"

"Oh," interrupted the editor, with icy courtesy. "You don't know how relieved I am. A poem written on the garden gate, eh? I was afraid it was written on paper, and that you wanted me to publish it. If I should ever happen to be passing your house, I'll stop and read that poem.."

Press Radio Department

EDITED BY N. D. GARVER

In an alternator it is necessary to excite the fields, or, in other words, render it magnetic from an outside source of direct current, whereas, all direct current generators are self-exciting, that is, all or a part of the current induced in the armature is led around the field windings in order to magnetize the field poles. In the case of the simplest type of generator, the armature is connected directly in series with the fields of that all the current produced by the machine flows through them. The series type of generator has so many shortcomings that it has long been obsolete except possibly for a few special purposes.

Shunt Wound Type—The current in a circuit divides in accordance with the resistance in the different parts of that circuit. By making the field windings of the generator of comparatively high resistance with a reference to the external circuit which the generator is to supply, and connecting the fields in shunt with the armature, the amount of current flowing in the fields is determined by the voltage at the brushes and the resistance of the field winding. If a shunt generator runs at constant speed is more or less current is drawn from the generator, the voltage across the brushes falls slightly. This fall is due to the fact that it requires more and more of the generator voltage to force its increasing current through the windings of the armature, that is, the armature ampereage resistance drop increases. This leaves a smaller part of the total E. M. F. for brush E. M. F. and then when the brush voltage falls there is a slight decrease in the field current, which is determined by the brush voltage.

This causes the total E. M. F. to drop a little, which still further lowers the brush potential. These two causes combine to gradually lower the brush pressure especially at heavy overloads. A small part of the total current, the exciting current, is shunted through the fields. The shunt wound generator gives a fairly constant voltage, even with varying loads. Its voltage may be kept more nearly constant by providing extra resistance in the field circuit, which may be cut out either automatically or by hand as the brush potential falls.

Compound Wound Type — To cause a substantial increase in the number of lines of force in the magnetic field with an increase of load, it is necessary to supply considerably more current to the field coils. This is accomplished by adding to these field coils a few turns of heavy wire in series with the armature so that all the current from the latter passes through them. The magnetic flux now increases with the load, since it is directly affected by the current demanded by the increased load. This combination of the shunt and series coils on the fields is termed a compound-wound generator and is in general use at present. When the series winding opposes the shunt winding it is termed a differentially wound type. The bi-polar generator is about the simplest type, but is now practically obsolete as practically all generators are of the multipolar type, in which the field frame is a circular casting from the inner face of which the poles protrude to form the armature bore. Pole pieces or ends are put on the poles after the coils are in place so as to almost enclose the armature.

WITH THE RADIO CLUB AND SCHOOL

We are all very sorry to hear of the resignation of our secretary, George Drinkwater. Mr. Drinkwas a well liked member and pupil as may be estimated by the office conferred upon him, and we all hate to lose him. He is a veteran of the world war and consequently is a trainee under the government tuition, due to disability incurred during the war while performing active duty. His training detains him in Los Angeles too late at night to be able to attend the classes and meetings, and consequently he has turned in his written resignation, which is now in the hands of Glenn Bronner, our president. Mr. Bronner will read the resignation next Monday night at the class meeting.

Evidently most of our pupils read the Glendale Daily Press, for there were only two of the pupils up inquiring about the school on Tuesday evening. The next class will be tomorrow night in the household arts building of the Glendale high school, beginning at the usual time, 7:30 o'clock. This will be a theory class and the loose-coupler and its uses will be the main topic, which, of course, will include a hook-up with it in circuit.

WOULDN'T IT BE GREAT?

IF: The city would put up a speed limit sign on the road leading from Tujunga and Montrose.

The Press car would stop in front of your house once in a while.

Woolworth's new five and ten cent store would carry radio sets—nothing over 10 cents!

NEWTON-PRESS RADIO

Many are wondering how the new broadcasting station is progressing. We take this opportunity to give official location of the station and change in former plans. The station is to be located on top of the Glendale Daily Press building instead of Pendroy's department store, as was first intended. There were various reasons for the change, one of which was the 15,000-volt transmission lines running up and down Harvard street. The others were, the fact that it would have been a hard matter to obtain a permit to build towers on the roof of the Pendroy building of such height as we deem necessary, that it would have been a difficult matter to guy the poles if we could have obtained permission to erect them, that it would have been difficult to string a counterpoise, which is also necessary for good phone transmission, and last, the extra stress which would have been imposed on the roof by the weight of a transmitting set and a separate building. The station, or rather, the studio room will be located in room 3 on the second floor of the Press building, while the motor generator room will be situated in the adjoining room. The Newton Electric company in a recent conference, decided to install a 50-watt set instead of a 10-watt, which means a very great increase in radius and also that the average crystal set in Glendale will receive the signals at a greater strength of audibility. The aerial is to be placed diagonally in order to avoid induction losses on transmission and to avoid the scratching noise caused by induction in reception. The aerials will consist of six strands of stranded bronze wire, while immediately under it will be the counterpoise of the same dimensions, only that the counterpoise will be of stranded copper wire instead of bronze. At present it looks as though the set will be practically constructed by next week, but that does not mean that the broadcasting will start at that time as it will be necessary to utilize considerable time in getting the set properly tuned before rendering a program. But, oh, boy! When that opening night does come along, every one wants to be where they can hear it, for we can say this much: "It will be SOME program!"

PHUNNY STUFF

I expect you have all read about R. H. Dixon of Los Angeles, who had his aerial strung on top of the apartment building in which he resided, and after endeavoring to receive signals, went up on the roof and found that one of the neighbors had hung clothes on the aerial. Now, really that shows the wonderful possibilities of radio. Boy constructs radio set and posts hours of concerts outside apartment door. All the neighbors are allotted clothes-hanging hours each day and they also post hours outside their doors. Clothes-hanging licenses will also be issued by the government for a small fee to cover cost of ordinary clothes line. People leave clothes on line by accident and they become full of wireless music. Next time they wear their clothes they can give their friends a concert by retaining music in clothes with aid of an overcoat.

'Arrive at friends' house, shed overcoat, and concert begins. When music gets weak, they can step behind curtain, remove shirt and put on coat. Then wring signals from shirt by industrious process of squeezing. Then again, boy in apartment house who hasn't enough money to string aerial, goes to all the neighbors and receives small compensation for allottment of clothes-hanging hours. So after all, if Mr. Dixon is wise, he will just allott hours to each family and purchase a new variable condenser.

A school girl declares that in case she requires a new party bracelet, she will wear her "honeycomb coil." If she does so, I'll wager that some up-to-the-minute jeweler will copy the design. It's certainly attractive enough.

One who claims that she is not versed in wireless, but who intends purchasing a receiving set this summer, writes to ask if the "fan" aerial has anything to do with cooling the temperature of the immediate neighborhood in which it is erected!

The old upright piano seems to be a thing of the past, but it is now coming into its own again since radiophone has taken such a hold on the country. It is just the thing to house the aerial and all the wires are strung in place.

An employe at the city hall has discovered the discarded piano as an aerial. All that has to be done is to attach the receiving set to the piano, taking care to effect the proper connection for a complete circuit, and presto! one has a radio equipment. The city employe is sure the theory is sound and he is just waiting for the next long distance broadcast to put it into practice.

The nautral period of vibration, or wave length, can be approximated by adding the length of the aerial, the length of the lead-in and the ground connection and multiplying the total length of all three by 1½.

For instance, an aerial 80 feet long with a lead-in of 40 feet and a ground of 20 feet has a total length of 140 feet. To find the natural wave length multiply 140 by 1½ which gives a total of 210 which is the natural wave period in meters.

This holds true for single or double wire horizontals or vertically swung aerials of the inverted "L" type. In computing the wave of the T or umbrella type, multiply by 1.67.

Everyone seems to be waiting for Woolworth's new Five and Ten cent store to open, on North Brand blvd.; I guess because they are wondering if they are going to handle radio sets. The sign on the front of the store says "Nothing over 10 cents" and as a rule the Woolworth stores handle most everything.

One man listening to the concert from the Press radio car, asked what the approximate cost of the entire outfit was. I replied "About $350 to $400." He then asked if that included the car too?

QUESTIONS—ANSWERS

Q—Is it possible to use two crystal detectors in series with each other? Is it possible to use an amplifier tube in conjunction with a crystal detector?—D. G. Eagle Rock.

A—Yes in both cases. Two crystal detectors when used in series with each other are not satisfactory as you may have the second detector on a poorer adjustment than the first which would decrease the strength of the signals received by the first. As for using the vacuum tube in conjunction with a crystal detector, if you will come to the office I will give you a hook-up for it.

Q—Will a variometer work with good results with a crystal detector?—L. R.

A—Yes, the correct type of variometer will work with a crystal detector. A vario-coupler will work better. The main thing is the capacity of the coupler. That is don't get a coupler wound with too much inductance as a crystal detector will not respond with good results when the coupler or variometer is of to great capacity.

"Stick to Aerials," Says Maj. Gen Squier

When Major-General George O. Squier, Chief Signal Officer of the United States Army, announced that he had perfected "wired wireless" as aplied to the radiophone, it looked pretty easy. Instead of attaching his receiving set to an aerial, he attached it to the electric light on his desk and received a perfect concert. Immediately radio fans throughout the country tried the stunt and many of them blew out their sets.

They had forgotten, or did not understand, that the broadcast must be transmitted along the lighting main.

"The set requires a special plug," General Squier has since explained, "but not special wiring. However, even the special plug will not give results unless the transmitting station is sending out broadcasts along the electric light mains. I did not receive a broadcast sent out on an overhead aerial. It was from a station which transmitted on the electric light mains..

"The advantages of the line radio method of broadcasting are many. The ether channels for radio broadcasting are limited, and even the few wave-channels which are available can be more profitably employed for such radio activities where space is the only or best method of communication. Also, since there is no radio interference caused by broadcasting on power lines, any number of wave channels may be employed and therefore multiplying the number of stations that can be operated on the same line."

Wavelength and Range Two Distinct Values

So many people get wavelength and distance confused. They are two entirely different values. For reception you must put approximately the same amount of wire in circuit of your receiving set as the sender is using in the aerial. This is not affected by the distance from the sending to the receiving station.

We are asked, "My set's range is from 200 to 600 meters. Is that the distance the set will receive?"

"No, it indicates the set will receive from stations using aerials with a wave length of 200 to 600 meters. A meter is about 39 inches or about one yard, so a set that would receeive only 200 yards wouldn't be much of a set. Amateurs are required by law to limit their wavelengths to 200 meters and comercial stations are required to work on 600 meters or in other words use aerials three times as big. The broadcasting stations nearly all operate at 360 meters so that a set with a range of from 200 to 600 meters will take in 360 meters broadcasting and concerts will be heard."

We are asked, "Why wouldn't it be advisable to build a set that tunes from 200 to 3,000 meters or even 24,000 meters so I could get all the stations of every kind?"

"The sets would be fine on the longer waves but they would be inefficient on the short waves because all that extra wire on the coils would act as a false capacity that would weaken the signals from shorter wavelengths. Therefore most everyone is content with a set that operates 400 or 600 meters. A long wave set should be a separate instrument and be entirely disconnected while using the short wave hook-ups.

Police Test Sets

BROOKLYN, N. Y.—One of the main features of the Radio show being held in Brooklyn is a contest of the New York Evening Telegram in which a prize of a Crocker-Wheeler motor generator set is to be awarded to the winner of the best Radio set. The set must be concealed entirely on the person of the operator. It also must enable anyone to maintain voice communication over a reasonable distance with other persons similarly equipped.

There is much interest to be taken in this contest because it is bringing out numerous sets that can be used by police, patrolmen, night watches and persons in similar occupations. If workable the police can use them in catching a criminal before he has gained too much lead on his pursuers. Such an outfit will enable one person to get in touch with another quickly and give warning of a fleeing criminal. The message can be relayed to another person farther along. Thus the criminal will be headed off before reaching any great distance.

Police commissioner Enright is to aid the judges in selecting the best set for the purpose. The importance of this contest to those interested in the improvement of the police force cannot be denied. Successful equipment of this type will go a long way toward checking the crime wave. Lack of immediate means of intercommunication is one of the most serious drawbacks when the bluecoats are called upon to prevent a crime or to hunt criminals.

Each set submitted is to pass through a series of tests and direct trials during the show. The tests are being made at the booth of the Evening Telegram radio department. The sets are tested out in pairs, one entrant talking to another via Radio.

PUREBRED STOCK MEN TO CONVENE

The Southern California Purebred Livestock Association will meet at La Habra, Orange county, at Saturday, May 27. The chamber of commerce and D. J. Bastanchury of "Better Berkshire" fame will entertain the members and their wives at a barbecue and luncheon, served in the new Community hall at La Habra.

W. W. VanPelt, secretary of the association, is extending a general invitation to pure-bred breeders and those interested in the development and promotion of the purebred industry, to attend this meeting, as matters of very great importance will be taken up for consideration.

Floyd Scott, farm advisor, and the Farm Bureau of Orange county are taking a great deal of interest in this meeting and a program of direct interest to stockmen is being planned.

Those who attend the luncheon will be guests of Mr. Bastanchury and the La Habra Chamber of Commerce but it is very desirable that notice be sent to Mr. Van Pelt at Riverside of reservations desired.

BRYAN NOT MADE PRESBYTERIAN COMMISSIONER

Rumor That He May Preside at General Assemble Unfounded

DES MOINES, IOWA, May 18.—The moderator (or president) of the Presbyterian General Assembly which opens its sessions here tomorrow, must be chosen from the actual membership of the Assembly. This membership consists of about 1,000 Commissioners from the 302 presbyterians of the United States. his fact sets at rest a rumor that has gained headway that William Jennings Bryan is slated to be moderator. Bryan is at present a Presbyterian elder in the Synod of Florida. The official returns of Commissioners elected from Florida show that he is not a delegate. Therefor Bryan is not a Commissioner and cannot be elected moderator.

Dr. Lewis S. Mudge, state clerk, is in charge of all the detailed arrangements for General Assembly and will personally look after all the executive details of the session.

Dr. William Oxley Thompson, of Columbus, Ohio, president of Ohio State University, is to be pressed by his friends to stand for moderator. Dr. Thompson is a duly elected representative from Columbus, in company with Dr. William M. Jennings and Elders Andrew Timberman and C. F. Young.

Already there is speculation as to the city that will win the Presbyterian General Assembly in 1923. It is understood that Atlantic City and Indianapolis will present invitations, backed by strong inducements.

The historic opening of the General Assembly includes the official sermon by the retiring moderator, who this year is Dr. Henry Chapman Swearingen, pastor of the House of Hope Presbyterian Church, St. Paul.

The actual business will begin at 2:30 p. m. Thursday, May 18, with the election of moderator and the selection of standing committees.

A public reception to Commissioners and visitors, under the direction of local committees, will be held at Hotel Fort Des Moines

MERITS OF SOFT DRINKS NOW RECOGNIZED

Dr. W. W. Skinner of U. S. Bureau of Beverages Reports on Study

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 18.—America as a nation has acquired the soft drink habit, during the past few years, and the popularity which the public has accepted bottled carbonated beverages is in a large measure the result of the recognition of the real merit of the present day beverage, according to Dr. W. W. Skinner, assistant chief of the U. S. Bureau of Chemistry. Dr. Skinner, who is one of the greatest authorities on carbonated beverages in the country and who has made an intensive study of these drinks, stated in a recent address before the American Public Health Association, in New York, it has been estimated that over four billion pint bottles of carbonated beverages, which means more than forty bottles for every man, woman and child in the country, are consumed annually.

"The development of the bottled carbonated beverage industry in the United States during the past ten or fifteen years has been quite phenomenal," Dr. Skinner continued. "The production of bottled carbonated beverage has, indeed, assumed a place of distinct importance as an industry. The recent development of the industry in my opinion is largely due to the recognition by the public of the real merit of present day bottled carbonated beverages.

"The increasing demand of the public for thirst-quenching delectable beverages, which are food products, has incited manufacturers to bring from the four corners of the earth all manner of spices and condiments, some of the prized articles of Biblical tradition and others unknown, which perhaps would have remained unknown except for the insatiable appetite of American carbonated beverage drinkers. There is no other class of American carbonated beverage drinkers. There is no other class of food which is subject to such intelligent and scientific manipulation as the beverage industry, which is a distinct advantage to both the industry and the public."

UNIQUE TOYS ARE NEW TUJUNGA PRODUCT

Mechanical and Electrical Toys Being Made for Display Purposes

TUJUNGA, May 18.—The latest products of a Tujunga craftsman are unique electric and mechanical toys. These are made by Thomas R. Davies of the Tujunga sheet metal works and are to be used by stores and realty firms for display purposes.

Probably the most interesting and elaborate of the products are the trolley cars, exact reproductions of the Pacific Electric trains, which are complete with headlights and interior illumination. There is an overhead track for the cars, which weigh 70 pounds each, and are run by two motors attached to the wheel trucks.

Mr. Davies expects to make canoes and other novelty products as they are ordered.

Antique Exhibit by Club

The Woman's club will hold a loan exhibit of antiques and curios on May 25 at the Community church for the benefit of the club house fund. Refreshments are to be served.

THE THREE SPIRITS

Whenever there's a task to do
Somewhere for you and me,
To carry that endeavor through
Three spirits fair we need.
The vision of our duty fair,
Faith that our souls may fill,
And resolution to declare—
I should, I can, I will.

First we must see the need to work,
Whatever it may be.
And faith to know unless we shirk
Achievement we shall see.
And last we need the soul to do,
That we have strength and skill
To carry this endeavor through—
I should, I can, I will.

So I should do this task that's here,
My duty lies right there.
And I can do it with good cheer,
And spirit that is fair.
I have the vision, and I know
I have the strength and skill,
So to my labor let me go,
I should—I can—I will!

REALTORS PLAN CITY PUBLICITY

gether with articles on Glendale written by George Wharton James, noted writer, lecturer and California booster and Dr. Fairbanks, geographical writer, who is building a home in Glendale at present.

On a motion by Roy D. King it was decided that the members of the local Realty Board change their schedule regarding commission for handling exchanges. It was decided to raise the commission from two and one half per cent commission to five per cent on both sides.

The finance committee reported on the financial affairs of the organization and recommended that $100 be voted Mr. Hayward as expense money on the trip to San Francisco as partial recognition of his service to the board as secretary. This recommendation was accepted and the money voted to the secretary who later turned it over to the book fund.

The matter of a program for the weekly meetings was settled yesterday. It was decided that a different member of the board should have charge of the program for each week. To lend interest to the securing of speakers Lloyd Wilson said that he would give a $10 prize to the member who arranged the most interesting program during the year. This award is to be made through a committee of judges to be selected. A. M. Yale will arrange the program for next week.

Hervey M. Porter, of the Los Angeles Realty Board and in charge of the details of the "End of the Trail Caravan" was the speaker of the day. He told the realtors of the completed plans for the caravan. He said that the caravan, when it leaves Los Angeles, will be 10 miles long. Applications to go on the trip have already been made by 800 realtors from all parts of the nation. Mr. Porter said that before the date of leaving there would in all probability be 1000 realtors taking part.

The caravan will leave Los Angeles at 7 a. m. on May 29 and will be escorted to the boundary of Los Angeles County by the county motorcycle police squad. This will be done in order to clear the road for the caravan and to prevent traffic jams along the route. The motorcycle police of every county to be traversed en route will do the same.

Motion picture studios have agreed to take a picture of the caravan from the air as it leaves Los Angeles, and another picture as it traverses the Ridge route. Motion picture cameras and cameramen will accompany the caravan over the trail.

The caravan will stop at noon, on the first day, in Bakersfield as luncheon guests of the real estate dealers of that city. Noon of the second day will be spent in Modesto. The caravan will stop in Fresno for the night.

Everything has been done to make the trip one of pleasure. Repair cars will accompany the party and will make any necessary repairs to automobiles. There will be ambulances and a corps of doctors to care for the sick and all baggage will be sent ahead in trucks provided for that purpose. About 35 members of the Glendale Realty Board have signified their intention to make the trip.

they had enrolled in the night school as many as 700 pupils, ranging from eighth grade graduates to college graduates. During the first week of the school, 200 people called inquiring about the courses offered.

The various courses taught with their teachers are as follows:

Spanish, elementary and advanced, Mr. Brockway.

Business English and Arithmetic, Mr. Webb.

Shorthand and Typing, Miss Davies.

Bookkeeping and Penmanship, Mr. Fullen.

Mechanical Drawing, Mr. Arthur Oliver and Mr. Lockwood.

Auto Shop, Mr. Roth.

Carpenter and Woodworking, Mr. Gorman.

Machine Shop, Mr. Smith.

Millinery, Miss Hobush, who also now has a class in dressmaking one night a week.

Business Men's gymnasium classes under Mr. Hayhurst, Business Women's classes under Miss Blanchard of Pasadena.

The three important facts regarding the night school are that there is no tuition charged, the only cost being for books and supplies used, no examination required for entrance and students can enter almost any class at any time. The work has been such a great success this year that it is hoped that it may be continued next year.

After this interesting talk, the president, Mrs. Wyman, who was in charge of the meeting, announced that the girls of the school had invited the mothers and teachers to enjoy a program in the auditorium.

Here Mr. Webb explained to the guests just what was meant by the "trade tickets" that the students are using. These tickets are issued to create a fund to aid the Explosion, as they have had a hard time this year to publish their publication, on account of the lack of funds. The merchants cooperate by these tickets in exchanging their advertisement which is run in the Explosion for trade which is purchased by the pupils or their parents through the use of the trade tickets. He urged every parent to buy them to help the students. They have some 6000 tickets left at present, and as the school year is nearing an end, the proceeds from these will go to help buy the school a moving picture machine.

Miss Virginia Huntley, president of the girls league gave a little introductory talk, welcoming the mothers and teachers.

The first number of the program was two splendid numbers by the Girls Glee Club, entitled "The Mexican Man" and "The Rosary." The harmony in both of these songs was beautiful. Miss Doris Packer then gave two very interesting readings from the writings of Carl Sandberg. Miss Julia Robinson rendered two delightful vocal numbers, accompanied at the piano by Miss Marjorie Yarick. She sang, "Ship O' Dreams" and "Little Blossoming Thoughts of You." The last number was a piano solo by Miss Mary Sherwood.

Miss Huntley then announced that they would adjourn to the lawn where tea and wafers were served.

As each lady left the auditorium she was presented with a dainty French bouquet.

BURGLAR FLEES WHEN POLICE ARE CALLED

Resident of California Summons Help as Intruder Enters

An attempt was made last night to burglarize the home of a Mr. Truitt, 308 East California avenue, at 10:45 o'clock. Mr. Truitt heard the burglar enter the screen porch and with some difficulty pick the lock of the kitchen door and enter the kitchen.

When the thief entered the screen porch Mr. Truitt telephoned to the Glendale police. Officers responded immediately, but the thief, hearing the phone conversation and realizing that something was wrong, made his getaway before their arrival. Nothing was taken from the home.

DEATHS AND FUNERALS

SAMUEL A. AYRES

Samuel A. Ayres passed away Wednesday at his late residence, 1121 South Central avenue. He was 87 years of age and a native of Iowa, having resided in Glendale or old Tropico for the past 39 years. He is survived by a wife, Minnie M. Ayres, two sons, Edgar S. and Samuel Nelson Ayres, both of Alameda, Calif., a daughter, Mrs. Mildred A. Moser of Acacia avenue, Glendale; a grandson, Marion A. Banker of San Diego; a brother, E. D. Ayres of Lankershim, and a nephew, Edgar Ayres of Pasadena. Funeral services will be held Saturday from the Little Church of the Flowers, Forest Lawn cemetery, time to be announced later. L. G. Scovern company in charge.

MRS. MARGARET GIBSON FRISBIE

Mrs. Margaret Gibson Frisbie, wife of Rea Frisbie, passed away at her home in Tujunga this morning. She was but 28 years of age and had lived in Tujunga about a year, coming there from Illinois. The remains, which are in charge of the Jewel City Undertaking company, will be taken to her old home in Illinois for interment. Funeral arrangements will be announced later.

L. A. COUNTY SUNDAY SCHOOL UNITS CONVENE

Convention Opens at First Methodist Church Auditorium

This morning the big county Sunday school convention opened in the auditorium of the First Methodist church following the registration of delegates, with Hugh C. Gibson, general secretary of the Southern California Sunday School Council of Religious Education, presiding.

The morning's program provided for a praise service led by Roy O. Youtz, followed by the "convention sermon," by Dr. W. A. Brown, executive secretary of the missionary education movement of Los Angeles county. Then came a discussion of religious vs. secular education by Dr. J. Louis Gilliee, pastor of the First Methodist church of Riverside, a talk on juvenile delinquency and its cure by Prof. E. J. Lickley, assistant superintendent of Los Angeles city schools, and another talk, following a song service, by Dr. E. P. Ryland, pastor of the Mount Hollywood Congregational church on the theme, "The Land Before Us. Can We Possess It?"

In addition to the main programs held in the auditorium, many separate conferences will be held in the parlors and class rooms of the church. For example, this afternoon's main program which includes a symposium on vacation schools, will end at 3 p. m. and be followed by about five separate conferences. There are to be three 10-minute talks in the vacation symposium, viz. "In a Rural Church," by Mrs. Lela Leech, leader of daily vacation Bible school work in Eagle Rock; "In a Small City," by Mrs. Alice C. Wood, a member of the faculty of Whittier college; and "In a City," by H. V. Mather, director of religious education of the First Methodist church of San Diego. Miss Rose Scott, secretary of religious education for the church extension board of the Los Angeles Presbytery, will lead the discussion which will follow these talks.

The separate conferences will include the divisions for children, young people, and adults, and the problems of each will be ably presented.

Rev. Clifford Cole, pastor of the Christian church of this city will speak this afternoon at the children's division on "The Churches of Our Country and Their Provision for Religious Education."

The general program of the evening in the auditorium will open at 8:20 with a song service led by Mr. Youtz and the address will be made by Prof. M. A. Honline of Chicago, described as "a teacher of teachers," and "a master in the field of religious education." His fame is such that he will probably draw a large audience.

Before this program opens, however, between 7:15 and 8:15 there will be about seven separate conferences for the divisions already mentioned and in addition the administrative division and educational division, where pertinent topics will be discussed.

If any delegate fails to profit by his or her trip to Glendale it will not be for lack of food for thought along Sunday Sunday school lines, but rather lack of time and capacity to absorb it.

'TEN NIGHTS IN BAR ROOM' TONIGHT

The announcement of "Ten Nights in a Barroom" closing tonight at the Glendale theatre proved of interest not only to motion picture fans but to all lovers of the thatre. This famous old play has been a stage favorite for over fifty years and in book form it is said to be second in point of circulation only to the Bible. The screen version was made by L. Case Russell, who has five hundred produced pictures to her credit, and she has followed the story faithfully but has taken full advantage of the great opportunities offered by the screen, with the result that the film version shows much that the stage production was forced to omit. The picture was directed by Oscar Apfel and produced by Blazed Trail Productions, Inc., in the heart of the Adirondacks. The star is John Lowell, who is supported by Baby Ivy Ward, who plays the part of his daughter, Little Mary Morgan.

"Ten Nights in a Barroom" is known to almost every man, woman and child in this country and the picture will be awaited with great interest, for the story is one which should lend itself to the screen far better than the average.

HOLLYWOOD INVITES SHRINERS' CLUB

The Glendale Shrine club has been invited to join other Shrine clubs of this district in a gigantic parade in Hollywood on the night of June 3. This parade is to precede the ceremonial and initiation of candidates by the Al Malaikah temple to be held that night at the Hollywood bowl.

This affair will be one of the big events of the Shrine year, as numerous candidates are being initiated into the order at this time as it is the last initiation before the convention in San Francisco.

The parade of the various Shrine clubs of the district will be one of the big features of the ceremonial. Clubs that have already signified their intention of taking part in the parade are Glendale, Pasadena, Santa Barbara, Long Beach, and all the clubs of Orange county.

VERDUGO PROJECT FOR GAS UP TO COUNCIL

Bolen Presents Plans of So. California Co. and the District

Mr. Bolen, acting for the gas committee from the Verdugo Woodlands section, appeared before the council last night with the contract to be entered into between the city and the Southern California Gas company in connection with the extension of the gas company's mains up into the Verdugo Woodlands section, and also a map showing the exterior boundary of the district to be effected by said improvement. These were filed and now that the committee's work is finished and whole matter is up to the city council, the members of that body assured Mr. Bolen that they would do everything they can to have this election, called at the earliest possible moment.

A painting contractor of Glendale appeared before the council and wanted a tax of $100 per year placed on the business of painting contracting in Glendale. He claimed that a tax of this character would keep out unscrupulous painters whose principal work is to cheat the builder. This matter was laid over to be threshed out later.

A warrant for $150 for the salary of Mr. Gulick for one month was ordered allowed and drawn.

As there were no protests against the vacating of Holly Drive a resolution was adopted ordering this step taken.

A 75 per cent protest against the improvement of Maryland, Kenwood, Jackson and Howard streets under the Vrooman act, was received and action along this line was discontinued.

A petition was received to set aside as a high class residential district, Isabel, Lexington and Doran streets. The clerk was instructed to place the hearing on this matter for two weeks from tonight.

An ordinance ordering the widening of Howard street at Broadway was adopted.

An ordinance declaring the intention of the council to open and lay out Ben Lomond Drive, north of Kenwood, was adopted.

An ordinance declaring the intention of the council to open and lay out Ardeven avenue, north of Kenneth, was adopted.

An ordinance establishing the grade of Thompson, Irving and Allen streets was adopted.

An ordinance creating two industrial districts, one on the San Fernando road and the other in the vicinity of the Glendale laundry, and a commercial district on Verdugo road, was adopted.

An ordinance amending the setback ordinance was laid over for further consideration.

An ordinance regulating plumbers and master plumbers within the city of Glendale was adopted.

An ordinance licensing certain lines of business and endeavor in the city of Glendale was adopted.

An ordinance was offered setting aside San Fernando road north of Ruberta avenue as a commercial district was introduced.

The assessment book for water main installation on Cedar, Everett and Wilson streets was approved.

The assessment book for water main installation on a portion of Dryden and Campbell streets was approved.

A resolution adopting certain maps in the office of the city engineer was adopted.

A resolution of intention to improve Salem street, from Columbus to Pacific, with water pipe was adopted.

A resolution of intention to improve Irving, Thompson and Raymond streets, was adopted.

A resolution of intention to improve Eulalia and Laurel streets was adopted.

A resolution of intention to improve Princeton street, resurfacing by the Vrooman act, was adopted.

An ordinance of intention to open, lay out and widen Adams street from Lexington to Monterey, was offered, read for the first time, and laid over.

A revised salary ordinance was offered by Councilman Lapham and declared read for the first time and laid over.
